CCHS teacher, golf coach, perishes in plane crash

Tragedy struck Clinton County late Friday night as word spread about the death of Clinton County High School teacher and Boys' Head Golf Coach Mike Anders.

Anders was apparently on his way to Knoxville, Tennessee, from Florida, when his plane went down in Flagler County Fla., around 2:19 p.m.

According to preliminary information from the Federal Aviation Administration, the plane was a Beech Bonanza (BE35) aircraft heading to Downtown Island Airport in Knoxville when Anders reported a mechanical problem and diverted to the Flagler airport in Florida.

Anders' plane crashed into a house in Palm Coast, Fla according to the Daytona Beach News-Journal. Homeowner Susan Crockett was apparently inside the house when the plane went down, but managed to get out through a window just after it impacted the residence.

Everyone on board the plane was killed in the accident including Anders, Duane Shaw, 59, a neighbor of Anders', and Charissee Peoples, 42, according to the Florida Highway Patrol news release issued. Peoples was Shaw's fiancée.

The three were flying back from vacationing in several spots in the Caribbean, according to reports.

Anders reported "severe shaking" and declared an emergency about 2:10 p.m., according to Flagler County sheriff's spokeswoman Debra Johnson.

Anders was 58 years old on Friday, the day of the accident. He has been a Spanish teacher at Clinton County High School for the past two and a half years and was head coach of the golf team for the previous two years.

In his first years as coach, Anders had the privilege of taking two Clinton County golfers, Evan Shelley and Sawyer Stalcup to the state golf tournament.

Anders had a lot of love for his players and the game of golf. In an interview conducted two years ago with the NEWS for the Fall Sports Preview, Anders said he had been coaching golf for 26 years and loved every minute of it.

"You don't coach for the money. You coach for the love of the game," Anders said. "It's a great game. It's the last of the games with no referees. These kids are taught more than just a game. They are taught integrity, honesty ... I'm not the coach that stops them in the middle of their round. I have to trust that once they take off they are on their own. It's about life."

Clinton County Superintendant Charlotte Bernard and CCHS Principal Sheldon Harlan met with teachers Saturday afternoon in order to prepare them for dealing with grieving students in the upcoming days. Harlan said he and his staff were going to open the school to those students who wanted to come out and talk about the tragedy.

"There was a lot of talk about how to have a successful grieving process and how they (students) need to be near, physically, how they knew the person," Harlan said. "Monday the teachers will talk with the kids in small groups and give them all the information we know is true. With the fact that this is the weekend, and with Facebook, they will know a lot anyway, but we need to go through that process."

The school was also open on Sunday from 2-4 p.m.

"He goes beyond being a good co-worker and employee ... he was a good friend," Bernard said. "He had a large impact on my children and the children of this school. He will be dearly missed."

Other than being the golf coach, Anders was also the chess club sponsor and he drove the bus for the golf teams. This year he pledged to drive the pep bus to the basketball games for free.

"You don't do stuff like that if you don't love the kids," Harlan said. "He did so many things that was outside his teaching that told me he really loved it here."

Several students were on hand Saturday afternoon to gather in Anders' room to show their respect. Students were heartbroken over the loss of their Spanish teacher and indications from the

Christmas At Home wraps up another successful run

The ninth annual Christmas at Home food and toy drive wrapped up just shortly after Christmas day 2012 and once again, despite the economic climate across the country, the annual drive was once again a huge success, coming close to the records that were set just a year ago in 2011.

When all totals were in, a total of 229 homes were assisted, and more importantly, 491 children benefitted from the program this year. That is just a little over 40 children less than the record 533 who received assistance the previous year, according to event organizer Pam Allred.

The program is sponsored annually by the City of Albany, Clinton County Fiscal Court, Chamber of Commerce, WANY radio and Clinton County News. As usual, city of Albany water and street department employees were charged with delivering the food and toys to the homes that had been added to the list of families who could use help from the program.

Allred noted that the event began being promoted in early November and although the number of churches participating this year was down a little, to around 13 participating, there

Clinton Hospital gets a 'shot in the arm' with fiscal cliff agreement

The Clinton County Hospital was one of only 10 hospitals in Kentucky and one of only 200 nationwide that will benefit from the fiscal-cliff deal reached last week, according to information released by the Kentucky Health News.

Even though most of the hospital industry wasn't happy with the fiscal-cliff deal that will only pay half the $30 billion needed to avoid a 27 percent Medicare fee cut for doctors, the deal gave about 200 rural hospitals, including 10 in Kentucky, reason to celebrate. It extends a program that pays hospitals up to several millions of dollars a year because they have fewer than 100 beds, are located in rural areas and have a high percentage of Medicare patients, Phil Galewitz of Kaiser Health News reports.

The Medicare Dependent Hospital Program was created in 1990 and is one of several payment

Sams eager to begin serving as newest member of Clinton Board of Education

When the Clinton County Board of Education meets for the first time in 2013 next week, there will be one new member serving in his first term as an elected official.

Local businessman Jeff Sams, 44, was elected as District Two Board Member last November to represent the citizens in the Neathery/Cave Springs, Snow and Seventy-Six precincts.

Sams is a native of Indiana where he grew up and graduated high school. However, he said he used to visit his step-dad every summer and while visiting in 1986, he loved the area so much, "I never went back (to Indiana)," he said.

The new board member has owned Jones' Restaurant in neighboring Burkesville, an establishment he had managed for 14 years prior before becoming the owner.

Sams said he primarily sought the seat because of the kids, noting his oldest son went through college and earned a business degree and he would like to see Clinton County become a place where high school graduates can come back home after college to find a job.

He said he had considered seeking the seat four years ago, but was in transition at the restaurant but after getting settled in, it gave him the opportunity to run for office.

"I'd like to see the kids that leave here be able to come back and go to work," he noted. He believes this is about the area's only downfall--not enough jobs, noting the school system itself was the second largest employer in the county.

Sams noted that sometimes kids aren't prepared for college, not because of the lack of a good high school education, but because of the changes they face from high school to higher education institutions.

Sams feels there are different functions of a school board member, other than just being able to hire the superintendent and board attorney. Among those is overseeing how the district functions, how the revenues are spent, disciplinary policies and especially as a "go-between" with parents, faculty, staff, students and administration and the superintendent.

The newest Board of Education member also feels the school system in being managed well financially, saying he felt Supt. Charlotte Bernard seems to be doing a good job in that area and that former Supt. Mickey McFall left the district financially sound upon his retirement last year.

Sams also noted that state test scores and other related scores among local students are picking up, but added "there's always room for improvement" in all school districts across the country. He added it would be a priority to help teachers have the resources they need and added Clinton County has a wonderful group of teachers...sel-

Legislative Update

by Kentucky Senator

Sara Beth Gregory

16th Senatorial District

2013 Session Overview

Hello and Happy New Year! This is the first in a series of informational columns about what's happening in Frankfort during the legislative session.

On Tuesday, January 8, the Senate will convene for the 2013 Regular Session of the General Assembly. During the first week of this 30-day "short" session, both caucuses are traditionally busy choosing their respective leaders and making committee assignments.

I am pleased that Senate Leadership has appointed me as the chair of the Government Contract Review Committee, the Budget Review Subcommittee on Justice, and the Enrollment Committee. I will also be serving as the Vice-Chair of the Agriculture Committee. I will be a member of the Appropriations and Revenue Committee, the Administrative Regulation Review Subcommittee, and the Judiciary Committee. I am excited and eager to contribute my efforts to each of these committees.

This session, while short, will nevertheless be busy with several important issues. As many of you know, public employee pension reform is at the top of the list. Over the summer, a bipartisan Senate and House task force heard from a diverse group of advocates and experts including state employees, business groups, and the Pew Center on the States. After hearing these reports, it is clear that the retirement system is in dire need of reform and, if not addressed, will be insolvent in a few short years. Currently, the system is only about 26 percent funded which represents a $33 billion unfunded liability. Please know, teachers' retirement is entirely different and on a relatively sound footing. The first step the task force is recommending is to fully fund the actuarial recommended contribution (ARC). While difficult at best, taking this step now to reform the system would ensure a faster recovery and ease the future strain on other areas like education and human services.

In addition to pension reform, the implementation of Medicaid managed care, which unfortunately, has not gone smoothly from the start, is another serious issue. We've heard many complaints about denial of care to patients and about slow payments to doctors, hospitals, and other providers. Medicaid provides a valuable service to over 800,000 Kentuckians, and it is a huge cost driver to the state budget. I want to make sure every tax dollar used to fund Medicaid is used wisely.

Since we're talking about the importance of protecting your hard-earned income, let me point out the recommendations of the Blue Ribbon Commission on Tax Reform. Recently, the group suggested raising both household and business utility rates, raising the cigarette tax, taxing retiree pensions, and eliminating certain deductions among other items. I don't see much sentiment in the Senate for raising taxes, as we want a tax policy that grows jobs and expands the economy. Since this is a revenue measure, this type of bill must start in the House of Representatives, but I intend to closely monitor this issue.

I feel it's important to ensure our children are work-ready and career-ready. We will continue to monitor the implementation of Senate proposal (SB 1 - 2009) that puts Kentucky at the national forefront using common-core standards and fair teacher evaluations. It's likely you'll see Advanced Placement classes and the teachers who teach them on the Senate agenda once again, as well as a bill making it easier for high school students to graduate early. I will also carefully evaluate any school safety proposals considered during the next session.

While these are all important issues, there are others, too. Pro-life legislation, financial transparency of special taxing districts, and the impact of Obamacare on Kentucky will all be addressed in some form.

I hope this gives you an overview of the upcoming session. I'll keep you informed as we go through session. In the meantime, if I can be of any assistance or you have any questions, concerns, or comments, please feel free to contact me in Frankfort toll-free at 1-800-372-7181 or by email at sara.gregory@lrc.ky.gov. The following teachers along with their students participated in this year’s event: Mrs. Teresa Giles, Office Systems Technology Program; Mrs. Billie Frye, Health Sciences Program; Mr. Jesse Burchett, Welding Technology Program; Mr. Jerry Bell, Electricity Program; and Mr. Jason Harlan, Carpentry Technology Program.

Pictured above are some of the students with the canned food items and shoes that was collected during the month of December.

Five resolutions to get you saving in the new year

Source: America Saves
1620 I St NW, Ste 200 Washington, DC 20006

As 2013 begins, make sure to give your finances a checkup and discover if you need to make saving your New Year’s resolution. You may discover that you have debt you need to pay down or that you are ready to take the next step in savings. Helping yourself and your family save successfully for the future should be near the top of your resolution list - and it’s one resolution you can’t afford to break! Remember, you don’t have to make a lot of money to save successfully. Start Small. Think Big.

- 1. Get Out of Debt
The best investment most borrowers can make is to pay off consumer debt with double-digit interest rates. How to do it: Find places to cut your spending so that you can pay down your debts faster.
- 2. Save for Emergencies
Having an emergency savings fund may be the most important difference between those who manage to stay afloat and those who are sinking financially. In a recent survey, only 49% of families said they had extra funds (not including lines of credit) available to pay for an unexpected expense of $1,000. Don’t find yourself unprepared in 2013. How to do it: Save a Portion of Your Tax Refund. Use the 30 - 40 - 30 plan. Designate 30% of your refund to pay off debt and catch up on outstanding bills. Earmark 40% for current use. Use 30% to jump start an emergency fund or long term savings. You can use form 8888 to split your refund into separate accounts and buy a U.S. Savings Bond. Bonds are a safe and easy way to save for the future.
- 3. Save for Retirement
Many employees turn down free money from their employer by not signing up for a work-related retirement program such as a 401(k) plan. If they did participate, with a dollar-for-dollar match they would likely receive an annual yield of greater than 100% on their investment. How to do it: Participate in a work-related retirement program or open up a Roth IRA. Already saving? Increase the amount you save toward retirement by 1% in 2013.
- 4. Make Savings Automatic
It can be hard to put aside money for savings. But there is an easy way to save money without ever missing it - Make your savings automatic in 2013.
- 5. Buy a Home and Pay Off the Mortgage Before You Retire
The largest asset of most middle-income families is their home equity. Once these families have made their last mortgage payment, they have far lower housing expenses. How to do it: Almost anyone can afford to own a home with proper preparation. Develop a savings plan to build up money for a down payment at purchase, for moving expenses, and for post-purchase emergency expenditures such as needed home repairs.

KSP offers winter driving tips

With the onset of winter and the possibility that motorists may have to drive in inclement weather, the Kentucky State Police (KSP) are offering safe driving tips.

The weather in Kentucky is unpredictable and this time of year you never know when to expect black ice, snow, icy roads or a mixture of road conditions. KSP is asking motorists to prepare in advance for the winter driving months ahead. “Winter provides new challenges and responsibilities to the public and the Kentucky State Police,” says KSP Commissioner Rodney Brewer.

“We ask that drivers be prepared to meet the challenges of the upcoming winter season in Kentucky. Plan ahead, make sure everyone in the vehicle is properly restrained, drive defensively and be sure the vehicle is properly maintained to handle the effects of cold temperatures.”

KSP reported that slippery roads were the contributing factor in 14,913 crashes and 63 fatalities in 2011

Here are a few simple steps to help keep you on the road and less stressed.

- Avoid travel unless necessary when winter weather is in your area.
- Decrease speed.
- Wear your seatbelt.

Driving Considerations

Leave early – allow more travel time; expect delays.

Increase distance between vehicles – it takes significantly longer to stop on snow covered or icy roadways.

Clear all windows on your vehicle prior to travel – having unobstructed vision is vital to avoid running off of the road or having a collision.

Illuminate your vehicles headlights.

Use caution on bridges and overpasses as they are susceptible to freezing before roadways.

Avoid using cruise control – cruise can cause the vehicle’s wheels to continue turning on a slippery surface when speed needs to be decreased.

Be Prepared

Ensure your vehicle has a full tank of gas in the event you are stranded for an extended period of time.

Charge your cellular phone prior to departure.

Take a blanket.

Notify a family member or a friend of your travel plans prior to departure – if you travel is interrupted, someone will know.

Collision Information

Be patient – weather also limits our capabilities and increases our response time; also, keep in mind that we will be experiencing a high volume of requests for service.

Attempt to move your vehicle out of the roadway if you are involved in a minor, non-injury traffic collision; especially if you are in a dangerous area such as a curve or a blind hill.

If your vehicle is stranded or wrecked but not in the roadway, attempts to recover your vehicle will have to wait until conditions improve for safety considerations.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555. Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

overwhelming responses on the social media site Facebook, he will be missed by everyone who had become acquainted with him.

Anders came to Clinton County three years ago and was hired to teach Spanish to Clinton County High School students.

Harlan said Anders told him when they first met, he had been in the area before and flown into Spring Creek Airport several times to fish on Dale Hollow Lake.

“When I first talked to him on the phone he told me there were two places he really wanted to go. He wanted to either go to southern Missouri or southern Kentucky,” Harlan said. “He told me he looked at Missouri’s education website and there wasn’t any openings for a Spanish teacher. He then pulled up Kentucky’s education department and there was an opening here.”

Harlan said Anders had very high standards as a teacher.

“That’s exactly what we wanted. I never wanted him to lower his standards in the classroom,” Harlan said. “He was always passionate about teaching. That’s about the only time I saw him upset was when something wasn’t going right in the classroom, but he would be over it in 30 seconds ... he was happy go lucky. If you left that classroom with a good grade then you knew Spanish and that’s what he wanted. He was as passionate about teaching as some of my younger teachers.”

Upon getting the head coaching position for the golf team, Anders obtained his Commercial Drivers License (CDL) in order to drive the bus on away and home matches. Clinton County’s home course is Dale Hollow State Resort Park, so the team traveled together to the course with Anders at the wheel.

“He did so many things for no pay. He went and got his CDLs because he knew he had some great golfers coming up and instead of paying a driver to be at the course and waiting on them to get finished with a match, he would just drive the bus himself,” Harlan said.

Anders was a huge supporter of all sports at Clinton County High School. He volunteered to drive the pep bus this year and numerous other gestures for the school for no additional pay.

“He was a fantastic person,”

Harlan said. “He will be greatly missed.”

In light of the tragic accident, Bro. David Dorn has agreed to drive the pep bus to away games in Anders’ honor.

Former head golf coach Mike Tallent, one of Anders’ closest friends in Clinton County, said Anders was a good friend and he will be missed.

“He enjoyed life and he lived life to the fullest,” Tallent said. “I’ve made that trip with him before ... I could have very well been with him.”

Tallent said Anders did what he wanted to do in life and loved every minute of it. Not much got under Anders’ skin according to Tallent and that’s what he projected to the people around him.

“I’ve been to his house a hundred times at least,” Tallent said. “We made the exact same trip last year. We were down there for 28 days. He was an enjoyable person to be around ... I really liked him.”

Anders leaves behind two children with his ex-wife, Patti Anders.

A memorial service was held at the Clinton County High School Wednesday.

Funeral arrangements for Mike Anders were not finalized at press time, Tuesday.

Clinton jobless rate drops

Clinton County’s unemployment rate dropped to 8.7 percent, a one-half of one percent decrease in November, 2012, compared to the previous month according to the Kentucky Office of Employment and Training, an agency of the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet.

The jobless rate locally was also lower than the 9.3 percent that was reported a year ago in November, 2011, according to the latest figures released.

Clinton County’s rate of 8.7 percent unemployment is figured on a civilian labor force of 4,912, with 4,487 being employed, leaving 425 in the ranks of unemployed.

Other counties, and the respective unemployment rate for each, in the Lake Cumberland Area Development District included: Adair (7.5), Cumberland (9.7), Russell (8.4), Pulaski (8.7) and Wayne (11.1).

Clinton County was one of 99 Kentucky counties that experienced lower jobless rates in November compared to October, 2012. During the same period, 20 Kentucky counties saw jobless rates increase, while one stayed the same.

Woodford County recorded the lowest jobless rate in the Commonwealth at 5.4 percent. It was followed by Scott County, 5.9 percent; Fayette, Franklin, Oldham and Union counties, 6 percent each; Daviess, Madison and Shelby counties, 6.2 percent each; and Ohio and Owen counties, 6.3 percent each.

Magoffin County recorded

the state’s highest unemployment rate — 15.1 percent. It was followed by Fulton County, 15 percent; Letcher County, 13.3 percent; Harlan, Knott and Leslie counties, 13 percent each; Jackson County, 12.9 percent; Bell County, 12.7 percent; Wolfe County, 12.6 percent; and Perry County, 12.2 percent.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure trends rather than actually to count people working. Civilian labor force statistics include non-military workers and unemployed Kentuckians who are actively seeking work. The statistics in this news release are not seasonally adjusted to allow for comparisons between United States, state and county figures.

Meth lab found during traffic stop

Clinton County Sheriff Rick Riddle points to the residue still visible in a meth lab bottle that was discovered in the bed of a 1996 blue Ford Ranger pickup truck last week. Riddle spotted the lab after stopping the truck near the Peolia Church on the Wolf River Dock Road last Thursday morning. Riddle said he stopped the truck because he knew of outstanding warrants on a passenger in the vehicle, Matt Reynolds. Another passenger, Toyna Conatser, had outstanding warrants on her as well, which was found out after the traffic stop was made. Reynolds and two others in the truck, Donald J. Craft of Albany, and Conatser of Albany, were all arrested and charged with manufacturing methamphetamine in the first degree, and lodged in the Clinton County Jail. Officers with the Kentucky State Police were later called to the scene to dispose of the materials in the meth lab. Riddle said there will be more charges pending.

was at least one extra business taking part. Thanks to the generosity of individuals citizens and the community, including various schools and organizations, there was enough food and toys to meet the need.

Allred theorized that one reason church participation was down a little was because many churches have their own type of outreach programs during the holiday season.

Deliveries began being made December 19 and although most were delivered by the December 21, due to some addresses being unable to be located right away, some were later, but nonetheless delivered to those families whose names were on the list.

Albany Mayor Nicky Smith was very pleased with the overall outcome of the 2012 Christmas at Home event, noting that it was again a huge success, and one of the more successful in the nine years of the program’s existence.

The mayor noted that despite a poor economy, people of the community came together to once again show the generosity of people all across Albany and Clinton County.

“I’d like to thank everyone who took part in any way,” the mayor said. He primarily thanked all those who donated, including groups and individuals, and volunteers that worked to make the event a success, especially city employees who donated time to wrap gifts and make deliveries to the homes.”

Both Allred and Mayor Smith noted that volunteers are always an important aspect in such an undertaking and hope...and invite, more volunteers to take time to help during the 2013 program, noting it is for a worthy, beneficial cause.

A listing of all participating businesses, churches, etc. will be published in an upcoming edition of the Clinton County News, and again...thanks to everyone who participated in any way in making the 2012 Christmas at Home event another great success.

Sams noted he didn’t see any major changes that needed to take place in the schools, saying there was already a lot of things in the works. He did say, however, that in working in the food service industry for so long, he hopes he can help out in the area of food service, to see improvements and still adhere to many new federal guidelines associated with that program.

The newest member of the board also believes that to serve on this board, or any other, a person has to be open-minded and willing to work with everyone. “If there’s a problem, you have to work together to solve it...if not we’ll be like they are on the federal level now,” he said. You need to be willing to give and take, everyone is entitled to an opinion.

Sams said he appreciated everyone’s support during this campaign last year and thanked the man whose place he will be taking, long-time board member and former board chairman, Ned Davis for the type of campaign he conducted as well as for the decades of service he has given to the community. He noted that Davis, who lives close by, has been facing some health issues and said he was in his family’s prayers.

Sams is a member of Aaron’s Chapel Separate Baptist Church and he and his wife Shannon have two sons, Michael Sams, 24, and Seth Smith, 14, an 8th grader at Clinton County Middle School. He closed by saying that if any parent or guardian of any student had any concerns, they could call him and he looks forward to serving the citizens and students in Clinton County.

programs designed to help small, rural hospitals deal with financial challenges that larger hospitals don’t face.

The program is based on the idea that “some rural hospitals have such a high percentage of Medicare patients they are unable to get enough money from higher paying privately insured patients to make up for the lower government reimbursements,” health lawyer Eric Zimmerman told Galewitz.

The program has come under scrutiny. Congress allowed it to expire in September 2012, but two senators from New York and Iowa made sure $100 million for the program made it into the budget deal. The Medicare Payment Advisory Commission said hospitals in the program will receive about 25 percent higher reimbursements as a result of the funding.

The Kentucky hospitals in the program are Clinton County Hospital, Fleming County Hospital, Harrison Memorial Hospital, Jewish Hospital Shelbyville, Logan Memorial Hospital, Monroe County Medical Center, Parkway Regional Hospital in Fulton, Rockcastle Regional Hospital, Taylor Regional Hospital and Westlake Regional Hospital in Columbia. The Appalachian Regional Hospital in Williamson, W.Va., is also considered a Kentucky hospital in the program.

WAYNE CO. OUTLOOK

Monticello

The Monticello Police Department has received several reports of a current telephone scam in which a caller identifies himself as an FBI agent and asks the victim to purchase a money card in the caller's name, usually in an amount of $50 to $100 and in return the caller will give the victim a large amount of money, usually around $500,000.

This is a scam and anyone who participates will lose money and get nothing in return. The police department noted that there will be no one to prosecute for the scam.

Anyone who does follow the instructions and purchases a money card, will be instructed to mail the caller the card or wire him the money. He will provide an excuse for not being able to collect the money in person. He may even ask for banking data so he can send the promised money electronically. He will then empty your bank account, cautioned police.

If the caller is in this country at all it will be several states away. Most likely he is in a foreign country calling on an untraceable prepaid telephone.

The name used by the caller may change, the agency he works for may change, the amounts of money may even change, but it will still be the same thing—a scam.

Anyone with questions or who needs more information should contact the Monticello Police Department at (606) 348-9313.

Friday, December 28 marked the final day in office for Wayne Circuit Clerk Richard Morrow, who officially retired from the job he had held for the past 25 years.

Staff members, along with members of the community, joined together to recognize Morrow with a retirement reception in his honor that afternoon in the district courtroom of the Justice Center.

Morrow received a plaque from District Judge Mike Lawson noting his 25 years of service to the community.

Lawson shared his thoughts on Morrow and expressed his appreciation for the job he has done as Wayne Circuit Clerk.

Morrow, 73, took office as Wayne Circuit Clerk on January 1, 1988. He has run unopposed since that time. Morrow decided not to seek re-election in 2012.

Morrow has been an active member of the Republican party since 1969 and has held many positions in the organization. He is a former member of the National Guard, serving from 1957 through 1966. He was a supply clerk for the unit.

Prior to being elected Wayne Circuit Clerk, Morrow worked for 27 years for the Correll and Johnson Hardware Store, which was located in downtown Monticello.

Deputy clerks presented Morrow with a special token of their appreciation. Chief Deputy Clerk James Lynn Hill made the presentation noting, "I served under the greatest sheriff and now I have served under the greatest circuit clerk."

Morrow was joined at Friday's reception by his wife, Janice, and his daughter, Lisa Pyles.

Monticello Police Department is now writing citations and enforcing towing for vehicles that are illegally parked in fire lanes in areas all around the city.

Monticello Police Chief Ralph Miniard stated that illegal parking in fire lanes has become a public safety issue and officers are no longer issuing warnings to violators.

The estimated fine and costs for a fire lane violation is $168.00.

The police department is encouraging all vehicle operators to avoid parking in any fire lane and to help keep fire lanes open and unobstructed for their intended, legitimate emergency use.

TIMES JOURNAL

Russell Springs

Several counterfeit $20 bills were passed at the Dollar General Store on W. Highway 80 on New Year's Eve, according to Deputy Sheriff Nick Bertram, who is heading up the investigation.

The three bills were passed at the store sometime between the early afternoon and evening on Monday, Bertram said. A clerk noticed the three bills as she was counting the money Monday night and noticed the difference in feel of the three counterfeit bills from the regular bills.

Bertram said the counterfeiter has not been caught and there are no suspects in the case as of yet but he is reviewing security footage at the store in hopes of identifying the perpetrator.

He is warning businesses in the county to check their money more closely in hopes of catching any more counterfeit currency.

The easiest way to spot a fake $5, $10, $20, $50 or $100 bill is to look for the following security features, all of which are very difficult to fake.

* Look for a security thread (a plastic strip) running from top to bottom. Beginning in 1990, an embedded (not printed) security thread was added to all bills except the $1 and $2 bills. If you hold the bill up to the light, you will see the strip and printing on it. The printing will say "USA" followed by the denomination of the bill, which is spelled out for $5, $10, and $20 bills but presented in numerals on the $50 and $100 bills. These threads are placed in different places on each denomination to prevent lower-denomination bills being bleached and reprinted as higher denominations. Compare a genuine bill of the same denomination, to make sure that the position of the thread is correct. If it is not, the bill is not genuine.

* The $5 bill has "USA FIVE" written on the thread; the $10 bill has "USA TEN" written on the thread; the $20 bill has "USA TWENTY" written on the security thread; the $50 bill has "USA 50" written on the thread; and the $100 bill has the words "USA 100" written on the security thread. Micro-printing can be found around the portrait as well as on the security threads.

* Hold the bill up to a black light. If authentic, the security thread in the bills will glow; the $5 bill glows blue, the $10 bill glows orange, the $20 bill glows green, the $50 bill glows yellow and the $100 bill glows pink.

* Hold the bill up to a light to check for a watermark. A watermark bearing the image of the person whose portrait is on the bill can be found on all $10, $20, $50, and $100 bills series 1996 and later, and on $5 bills series 1999 and later. The watermark is embedded in the paper to the right of the portrait, and it can be seen from both sides of the bill.

* Tilt the bill to examine the color-shifting ink. Color-shifting ink (ink that appears to change color when the bill is tilted) can be found on 100, 50 and 20 dollar bills series 1996 and later, and on 10 bills series 1999 and later; $5 and lower bills do not yet have this feature. The color originality appeared to change from green to black, but it goes from copper to green in recent redesigns of the bills.

* Use a magnifying glass to examine micro-printing. Beginning in 1990, very tiny printing was added to certain places (which have periodically been changed since then) on $5 and higher denomination bills. The exact location of the micro-printing is not generally an issue. Rather, counterfeits will often have either no micro-printing or very blurred micro-printing. On a genuine bill, the micro-printing will be crisp and clear.

* Run your fingernail over the portrait's vest of the bill. You should feel distinctive ridges, printers cannot produce this.

If you have any information regarding this case please call the Russell County Sheriff's Department at 270-343-2191.

these items."

Foley said he made a special solid oak cornhole board for the first lady as a gift.

"It was hand-rubbed and had brass clasps on the side," he said. "It was a nice piece."

He said also wanted to thank former Sen. Vernie McGaha for all the guidance and help on getting him to Frankfort.

Foley discovered at an early age that working with wood would be an integral part of his life.

He has presented many of his wooden items at craft fairs and shows. Everything he makes is handmade with precision from products located in the heart of Kentucky.

"Over the years I have worked with many types of wood, gaining knowledge and respect for the trade," he said. "I especially enjoy making wooden toys, essentially a lost art. Children love these toys, which are a refreshing change from mass production items."

Foley said he also enjoyed making wooden cornhole boards, trays and other trinkets.

"I enjoy meeting new friends and welcome visits to my shop for special commissioned items or just to chat," Foley said. Foley's work can be purchased at the Kentucky Proud Market at Rupp Arena, a good majority of Kentucky State Parks including Lure Lodge, The Appalachian Community Crafts in Barbourville, Ky., a craft specialty store in Lancaster, Ky., as well as Grider Drug here locally, he said.

His work can also be bought online at www.kentuckyproudmarket.com and by calling and visiting his Russell County location at Bluegrass Woodworks. Foley, who is also a Kentucky Colonel, can be reached at 270-585-2110.

RUSSELL COUNTY NEWS-REGISTER

Russell Springs

Late last month before the holiday rush kicked in local artist and wood craftsman Jeff Foley of Bluegrass Woodworks made a trip to the Governor's Mansion in Frankfort to deliver the Beshears some of the wooden hand-carved toys he had designed and crafted himself.

"I was just tickled to death and honored to have been a part of the day," Foley said. "They even invited me back for another visit soon."

Foley, a Russell County native and a Juried Kentucky Artisan Craftsman and a member of Kentucky Proud, said his toys, 23 of them to be exact, were placed under the Christmas tree at the mansion by Ann Evans, executive director of the mansion. Alisha N. Norris, also a Russell County native, was also present at the mansion during Foley's visit.

Foley's fiancée, Kim Hunley, joined him on the trip.

Evans admired the detail of the toys that Foley brought and donated to the mansion and also told Foley that Kentucky First Lady Jane Beshear went immediately to the toys following her return from a birthday party.

"The toys will stay at the governor's mansion from now on," he said. "Every governor from now on will have those toys for children to play with, be it dignitaries' children or their own."

Foley said Evans treated him and his fiancée with such generosity and care during their visit and that he was looking forward to visiting the capital again in the near future.

"She told me that the donation of those toys would be recorded in the annuals of Kentucky history," he said. "It will always be on record, during history studies, that artisan Jeff Foley donated

TURNOVERS

by Alan B. Gibson

A really nice guy - taken too soon

Normally this time of year we are talking about how much fun we're having enjoying the basketball season as we reach the mid-way point of regular season play.

The athletic community, as well as the entire student and faculty bodies at Clinton County High School was, of course, saddened over the weekend to learn of the untimely death of Mike Anders, who perished when the single-engine airplane he was piloting crashed into a house in Florida Saturday.

Anders, in addition to teaching Spanish at Clinton County High, was also the boys' golf coach for the past couple of years, which is how I became acquainted with him while covering the Golf Dawgs the past few seasons.

We weren't especially close friends but since being introduced a few years ago by then head golf coach Mike Tallent, we had spent several afternoons having brief conversations during golf matches and a few things stood out about Anders' personality.

First of all, he had a very unique personality that was entertaining during conversations. After that first introduction by Tallent when Anders first arrived and began working as an assistant coach to the golf team, others would introduce me to Anders when I walked up, unaware that we had already met. He would always take those two quick steps, hand extended and proclaim "Yep, I know Al well."

Outgoing, yes, but that wasn't what stood out about Anders - at least to me. Like I said, our conversations were always brief, often out on the course while I was photographing matches and he would stop by while "hop-scotching" from hole to hole to keep up with the progress of his team members.

He never wanted to talk about his own life, his accomplishments or how his past had led him to teach and coach in Clinton County. Instead, within seconds, the conversation would head toward his players - how "Sawyer" had performed in the previous match, or perhaps how "Evan" had put it all together in a round or even how some of the younger players were beginning to show some real promise. "John Richard" had put together back to back to back pars to finish a round nicely or "Reed" had finished a particular hole in up and down fashion.

His conversations were always about the kids, and he was often even borderline "over the top" in dishing out praise for his players when reporting match results or during interviews.

That's a trait that we don't get to see enough of these days. Mike Anders was one of the good guys, unique and fun to be around. But his desire to bring as much positive attention to his team members made it clear that his love for the youth he had been charged with teaching - whether it be on the golf course, at the chess tables or in the classroom - was a genuine love and his first priority.

And that's the best thing anyone could ever get to say about a coach.

Mike Anders - one of the good guys - and one that will certainly be missed by the entire CCHS community.

Tie-night for Mike

Friday night's home double-header at C.C.H.S. (vs. Russell County), will be a special night to honor the memory of Mike Anders.

Those who knew Mike recognize that in most instances, he was always seen wearing a necktie, especially when he was in the classroom or hallways and on the job as a teacher at Clinton County High School.

Melissa Sewell Tallent, who is the pep-club (6th Man) sponsor at C.C.H.S., worked closely with Mike in that he was serving as the volunteer driver for the pep buses that were being taken to the basketball games. She has asked me to inform our readers that in honor of Mike's memory, this Friday night has been designated Blue and White night for Mike, and all Clinton County fans, men, women, boys and girls, are being asked to wear blue and white to the game, and for everyone to include wearing a necktie in honor of Anders.

Pretty nice gesture and one he would have appreciated.

Bridging the gap between generations ...

Empowerment Solutions Group from CCHS

During this past holiday season, elders of Clinton County Care & Rehabilitation enjoyed many visits from children of all ages. The Empowerment Solutions group from CCHS brought gifts and helped elders choose a gift to give to one of their family members.

The 7th and 8th grade Junior Beta Club and the Making a Difference Club came to sing carols and visit. HOSA students from the Area Technology Center brought cards for everyone. The biggest group visiting was all the 3rd grade classes from Albany Elementary.

Each class brought items they had made or taken up for each of the elders and the children filled the hallways with blessed songs. The elders also received a surprise visit from Brenda Sloan and her two children. They brought everyone a box of homemade goodies and cupcakes to enjoy.

The home also enjoyed visits from many people, churches, and other organizations that helped to bring holiday cheer and blessings to all the elders through donations, caroling, visits, and other ways that showed their kindness.

Gold standard in Kentucky sports lives in Louisville

by Bob Watkins

Price of bullion is up, way up. The gold standard, defined by Kentucky's Mitch Barnhart last year, has been re-set and belongs in Jefferson County.

As we head into mid-winter, University of Louisville athletics is on a hot streak that dazzles the mind of even the most ardent fan in Big Blue Nation.

✓ UofL has a Sugar Bowl trophy and $17 million dollars (before the Big East takes it's cut).

✓ Rick Pitino's team survived arch-rival Kentucky, is ranked in the top five, and hasn't lost a game since before Thanksgiving.

✓ Kentucky Mr. Football, James Quick is staying home. The MVP from Armed Forces Bowl, will sign with Louisville next month instead of Ohio State.

✓ UofL's women's basketball team was 12-3 last week and ranked No. 11.

From the Add On Dept.

✓ A few streets over from Belknap campus, Scotty Davenport's Bellarmine team is unbeaten in a dozen games.

✓ Charlie Strong has a commit already from Trinity High School's next quarterback.

✓ And, as geographically illogical as it is, Louisville will be a Tobacco Road program next year.

✓ Oh, and Rick Pitino's horse Avare won $75 grand at Santa Anita last week.

Gold Standard stuff.

Among the revenue-makers ...

✓ Charlie Strong, aside from a little Tennessee waltz, walked the walk and his Cardinals put a gloss on an 11-2 season by thrashing a bunch of guys and handful of hooligans dressed up as Florida Gators.

✓ Next? Quarterback Teddy Bridgewater is already a Heisman Trophy candidate. Treat to come: Watch progress and media gush over hopeful Bridgewater and Heisman holder Johnny Manziel, Texas A&M.

✓ Pitino's team, led by a senior and five juniors, is on track to a No. 1 seed in March, but also produced a record 3.41 team GPA last semester.

Football, a bowl win, basketball, rankings, GPA and recruiting.

We know where the gold standard is in our Commonwealth and where it isn't.

KENTUCKY

While University of Kentucky fans have paid more for less (football) and (NBA D-League) home basketball games, maybe Jefferson County gold standard, instead of being resented, should be a model worth study and imitation.

✓ Mark Stoops and Neal Brown have honeymoon time and opportunity to re-cast football, get up to Louisville's level. Remember, the team UofL embarrassed in New Orleans is same Florida that collared Kentucky 38-0 in September.

Charlie Strong needed three years to meld credibility-to-recruit, think big time, then win big time, and carry momentum into next season. Why can't Kentucky do the same?

✓ Basketball. UK recruiting success IS the gold standard in college hoops. Yet, since UK fans expect national titles, their teams have only one in four years. Will 25 percent satisfy the faithful?

Only one player, as John Calipari calls them, has been at UK long enough to put the word experience on his resume'. Thanks to Maysville, and Billy Clyde Gillispie, Darius Miller stands alone as role model deluxe. Miller has the big triple – NCAA title ring, college degree and regular NBA paychecks.

Bottom line? Kentucky needs new emphasis on name on front of jersey and less about Cal's crow, "At Kentucky it's all about the players."

Kentucky basketball has been about more than players, and more than an NBA farm team for more than seven decades. The program's real owners are millions of fans of all ages who buy tickets, merchandise and, most of all, invest love and respect for student-athletes who want to play basketball where it is revered most, in Kentucky.

FRESH BREEZE AT KENTUCKY

Here came a fresh breeze for UK basketball fans last weekend.

In front of ESPN cameras Dakari Johnson chose Kentucky over Georgetown and Syracuse. The 6-10, 250-pounder's reasons made the big kid's college pick special.

Why Kentucky? Johnson skipped the mercenary "Kentucky can get me to the league!" line, stayed politically correct - wants to win a national championship. And likes the idea of coaches pushing him, make him better.

Best part? "... I'm a good teammate," he said. "I'm a good person on and off the floor."

Then came the magic and that causes Kentucky fans to fall in love. The smile.

BOWL NOTES

- Ohio State, Alabama and ... Louisville will be in the top 5 out of the chute next season. And, four games into the season, three at home, the Cards should have completed its pre-league patsy-portion 4-0, (Ohio U., Eastern Kentucky, (at) Kentucky and Florida International).

- Grand Lesson. Florida's humiliation in the Sugar Bowl is worth a video for every coach who gets his team bowl eligible and needs a pre-game speech. "Gentlemen, you're about to see what happens when you go home for Christmas and only your silhouette comes back."

- Sa-LUTE to Vanderbilt and Northwestern. The Commodores (9-4) and Wildcats (10-3) wall-doped North Carolina State and Mississippi State respectively in bowl games, to wrap up school record seasons.

Vandy defeated Northwestern in September and was set to host the Wildcats in Nashville in 2013, but cancelled because the 'Dores had five non-SEC games scheduled. Vandy also cancelled a game at Ohio State next season.

And so it goes.

Yearling bull maintenance tips

You have just purchased a high performance yearling bull. Great care has been given to develop the high level of genetics of your bull to this point. How do you protect your investment in your new young bull? Keeping the bull in sound breeding shape will require some effort on your part. Carelessly placing the bull in a large area with too many cows can quickly make your investment practically worthless. Acclimate your bull gradually to his new setting. Do not take your bull home and immediately turn him out with cows. If possible, turn him into a smaller lot with a female or two, and let him settle in for 30-60 days prior to the breeding season. Yearling bulls purchased now should not be used until April or May. Turning a young bull out without acclimating him may cause him to go off feed and lead to poor health resulting in poor conception rates. Young bulls are good candidates to quickly lose weight and sustain injury due to setting changes. Remember, a yearling bull is just that, a yearling bull! He is still growing and needs to be cared for to keep him healthy and developing. Bulls will continue to grow to maturity until they are four years old. Use a younger bull in a smaller breeding pasture and reduce the number of cows he has to cover. The smaller pasture and reduced number of cows will reduce the amount of weight loss.

All bulls need to have a breeding soundness evaluation done by a licensed veterinarian prior to using the bull. The cost of this testing usually ranges from $40-$50. A BSE will determine if the bull is a POTENTIAL satisfactory breeder or not. Even though a bull passes the required testing for active sperm, motility, and abnormalities, it is still possible under rare situations where the bull cannot settle a high percentage of cows. This is usually caused by lack of desire, poor eyesight, or foot problems. If a yearling bull is developing and managed properly, he can be just as effective as a two year old. A yearling is 60 percent of his mature body size. A two year old is approximately 75 percent of his mature size. It is suggested yearling bulls should be used on approximately 15-20 cows for no more than 60 days. Two- year olds can be used on up to 30 cows in proper situations. A good rule of thumb is a bull should not be used on more females than his age in months. Example: A 20 month old bull should work well on 20-22 females. The biggest mistake too many cow/calf operators make is NOT getting the young bull away from the cows to rest and regain weight. Following a 60 day breeding season PLACE THE BULL IN A SEPARATE LOT AWAY FROM THE COWS. This rest-up period will allow the bull to add weight and regain needed body condition to continue growing. This is critical to the longevity of the bull. It is important to take care of your bull after the breeding season is complete. Yearling bulls should gain about 300-500 pounds regain weight loss before the next breeding season. A good bull can become one of the best investments a cattle producer can make. At the same time it can also be a waste of good money if a few important steps are not taken by the owner to maintain the bull. Until next time, keep putting on the pounds!

Doc Barker is killed by prison guards in escape attempt

January 13, 1939

Arthur “Doc” Barker is killed while trying to escape from Alcatraz Prison in San Francisco Bay. Barker, of the notorious “Bloody Barkers” gang, was spotted on the rock-strewn shore of the island after climbing over the walls. Despite the fact that guards were ordering him to surrender, Barker continued tying pieces of wood together into a makeshift raft. As he waded into the water, the guards shot and killed him.

Doc Barker, along with his brothers Herman, Lloyd, and Fred, and their mother, the infamous Ma Barker, formed one of the more formidable criminal gangs of the 1920s and 1930s. Carrying out a series of bank robberies and kidnappings throughout the Midwest, Ma shrewdly paid off officials in towns all over the region, allowing the gang to avoid the law for long stretches of time.

In 1934, with their pictures in all of the newspapers, Doc and Fred Barker tried to change their appearance through plastic surgery. They enlisted Dr. Joseph Moran to conduct the operations, including removing their fingerprints. But the plan was a disaster, and each ended up with terrible scars, infected fingers, and recognizable faces anyway. Dr. Moran was adopted into the gang as a matter of necessity, but when he started to talk about their activities to a prostitute, the Barkers killed him.

On January 8, 1935, FBI agents, led by Melvin Purvis, captured Doc Barker in Chicago, Illinois. As he searched Barker, Purvis reportedly asked, “Where’s your gun?” Barker replied, “Home -- and ain’t that a place for it?” Eight days later, Fred and Ma Barker were pinned down at their hideout in Florida.

“American Pie” hits #1 on pop charts

January 15, 1972

On this day in 1972, “American Pie,” an epic poem in musical form that has long been etched in the American popular consciousness, hits #1 on the Billboard charts.

The story of Don McLean’s magnum opus begins almost 13 years before its release, on a date with significance well-known to any American who was alive and conscious at the time. Tuesday, February 3, 1959, was the date of the plane crash that killed Buddy Holly, Ritchie Valens, and J.P. “The Big Bopper” Richardson - a date that would be imbued with transcendent meaning by Don McLean when he labeled it “the day the music died.” One might reasonably point out that the baby-boom generation has since invested its entire rock and roll experience with transcendent meaning, but don’t blame Don McLean for starting the trend. “American Pie” wasn’t written to be a generation-defining epic; it was written simply to capture McLean’s view of “America as I was seeing it and how I was fantasizing it might become.”

When asked to explain what exactly he was trying to say with some of his more ambiguous lyrics, McLean has generally declined. Many others have applied themselves to the task, however, and even today the Internet bristles with exhaustively reasoned interpretations of “American Pie” and its web of lyrical references to the youth culture of the 1950s and 60s. The meaning of the Stolen Crown and Marching Band may be of interest only to the most obsessive of baby boomers, but almost all of us know the chorus of “American Pie” better than we know our own national anthem, and the chances are good that our great-grandchildren will, too. Which isn’t bad for a song that was written and recorded by a struggling folk singer who merely hoped that it would “earn two or three thousand dollars and make survival for another year possible.”

Kentucky Facts and Trivia

In January 1937, a massive flood occurred as the result of snow melt and record rainfall effecting nearly every Kentucky town and city along the Ohio river, its tributaries and the Mississippi.

Water levels began to rise January 5 and by January 27, the river gauge reached 57 feet in the Louisville area, setting a new record. Seventy percent of the city was under water at that time. Called the Ohio River Flood of 1937, the damage stretched from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Illinois, one million people were left homeless with 385 dead and property losses reaching $500 million ($8 billion in 2012 dollars). Federal and state resources were strained to aid recovery, as the disaster occurred during the Great Depression and a few years after the Dust Bowl.

A handful of powerhouse radio stations, including WLW and WHAS, quickly switched to non-stop news coverage, transmitting commercial-free for weeks. These broadcasts consisted mostly of messages being relayed to rescue crews, as many civil agencies had no other means of communication.

Several businesses in the Louisville area were devastated, especially the famed Rose Island amusement park on the Indiana side of the river near Charlestown, which never rebuilt. As a result of the flood, newer development in Louisville was directed to the east out of the flood plain. The east side has benefitted by a long-term concentration of wealth among residents and businesses which located away from the older central and western areas of the city.

At Paducah, the Ohio River rose above its 50 foot flood stage on January 21, cresting at 60.8 feet and receding again to 50 feet. For nearly three weeks, 27,000 residents were forced to flee to stay with friends and relatives on higher ground in McCracken County or in other counties. Some shelters were provided by the American Red Cross and local churches. Buildings in downtown Paducah bear historic plaques that note the high water marks. With 18 inches of rainfall in 16 days, along with sheets of swiftly moving ice, the ‘37 flood was the worst natural disaster in Paducah’s history. Because Paducah’s earthen levee was ineffective against this flood, the United States Army Corps of Engineers was commissioned to build the flood wall that now protects the city.

Letters to the editor

To the Editor,
For the most part, everyone knows their alphabet as they come up through their schooling. There are three letters in the alphabet that can mean life or death. PFA: Protection From Abuse. We have learned months ago that the real truth of these three letters, in the death of one woman and the wounding of a man. In Clinton County, Kentucky, a lady was stalked by her ex-husband, who eventually kidnapped, tortured and killed her before taking his own life. Where was 'law enforcement' when they were needed to protect her rights, it seems nothing was done.

Cumberland County, Kentucky Sheriff deputies were called to a violation of a PFA. The deputy did not respond to this call for help, instead he went to help another deputy who didn't need any help, before he responded to the call he was supposed to go to but did not. A woman shot a man who was assaulting her husband to protect him from a PFA violator. Why does it not surprise me that law enforcement does not seemingly take "PFA" seriously? Does the "good old boy network" still prevail in these two counties? In Cumberland County that deputy should have been suspended, sent back to school to re-learn his alphabet with proper police training, before coming back to work. With my four decades plus of law enforcement training, PFA has always been treated as a serious crime. This is "one man's opinion."

To the Editor,
Everybody knows there is a God, that's my belief. But some people don't want to admit it. Why? They get all torn up inside when they see a cross. Seeing the Ten Commandments out where all can see them can almost give them a heart attack. Why?

I heard it asked on a radio talk show, "Why get so upset if God does not exist?" People who say they have been kidnapped by creatures from another planet never get hauled into courtrooms for telling what they believe is true. Some people say they have already lived more than a few lives going back thousands of years. Nobody told them they can't speak out in public places, and explain to others what they believe.

Why can't those who believe in God speak out? It's because the "God does not exist" people know God is real, is powerful, and cannot be ignored! Take a look at the book of Job in the Bible. In the first chapters, Job is shown to be someone God cares for, and has helped all through his life. Now comes the Devil-Satan. He shows up in heaven with God's angels standing before God. "Where have you come from?" asks God. "From patrolling the earth," says Satan. God already knew Satan is forever traveling all over the earth looking to start trouble anywhere he can. God is still in heaven speaking with his angels as they come to meet with him, and talk about how things are going with us humans. Satan is still mean, hateful, and looking for places to cause suffering.

I have no doubt that God and Satan still see each other. No matter the sickness or trouble, Christians keep pushing back and giving no room for Satan to tempt them into not believing. Life is not perfect. Here is where a Christian makes a stand, and prays to God. The closer you get to God the more upset Satan gets. Such a huge frown Satan must wear each time he fails to spread sadness and trouble. How would you like to know you put a big, fat frown on Satan's face?

We used to sing a song as kids in church about being in the Lord's Army. I think it really is a battle between good and evil here in this life. Have you chosen sides? I hope you're in the Lord's Army. I am.

The Breast Specialist comes to Lake Cumberland

Did you know?

ONE out of eight women will be diagnosed with Breast Cancer, which can be cured IF it is discovered early enough. An early diagnosis depends on the technology used and the doctor who interprets the mammogram.

How We Can Help:

Our patients love us because we provide SAME-DAY results using the best technology at no extra cost. Our team has the most experience with 3D mammography within Southern KY... so you can be relieved.

New Technology:

- Not all Mammograms are the same. 3D mammograms allow doctors to see smaller cancers and other abnormalities that are not visible using traditional mammography.
- Not all Ultrasounds are the same. We use specialized ultrasound equipment that is designed for breasts.

The Best Service:

KBC is a "one stop shop", where you can get all of these services performed on the same day, by an all-women staff in a "spa like" environment:

- 3D Mammogram with results before you leave;
- Breast Ultrasound;
- Osteoporosis Screening;
- Biopses (if needed).

Unmatched Experience:

- Dr. Woodroof is the ONLY full year fellowship trained breast radiologist in Southern KY;
- We are the 1st to bring 3D to Southern KY and we are committed to providing our patients the best medical care.
